August 2nd 2018

INTRODUCTION

The Somaliland Diaspora Investment & Entrepreneurship Summit aims to bring representatives from government officials and agencies, the private sector, academics, intellectuals, business entrepreneurs, NGOs and others-to create mentorship opportunities and increase diaspora community engagement. This Summit makes efforts to generate more discussion and ideas to boost Somaliland investment by attracting diasporas business and entrepreneurship community. Additionally, it will also enable diaspora community to understand local investment dynamics, link up with local business community and create synergies that are crucial for starting up new business or expanding existing ones. The Summit will be concluded with a Gala Dinner Awards Night.

The main goal of this Summit is to engage and incentivize entrepreneurs and investors in the Somali Diaspora who are looking for opportunities to create trade, investment, and mentorship opportunities in Somaliland. At its core, the Summit will be an opportunity for participants to interact with and hear from various individuals, highlighting their successes and failures in doing business throughout the Somaliland. Speakers will include diaspora early-stage investors and entrepreneurs as well as donor partners who will discuss existing programs that are being implemented to take advantage of the diaspora potential to boost trade and investment. At this Summit, participants will discuss and brainstorm around the possible potentials that Somaliland can reap from its diaspora population.

Objectives

- To bring together investors, daring entrepreneurs and innovative business community from the diaspora for one day action-packed summit in Hargeisa
- To create and attract aspiring business entrepreneurs from the diaspora to expand investment opportunities and economic empowerment of local communities
- to promote Diaspora investments into the country and channel their resources to the local businesses and productive sectors.
- The summit also aims to provide an opportunity to donors and international investors to interact with Somaliland business community-both diasporas and locals-as well as to share their ideas and strategies for contributing to economic growth in Somaliland.

Why the Summit?

The increasing stability, security and improvements in legal environment in Somaliland has increased many diasporas to not only return to their homeland but also to create business opportunities locally. Hargeisa has seen tremendous expansion of business owned by diasporas and new innovations in businesses for the last 20 years. However, despite the influx of diasporas business community, there has always been hurdles and lack of proper incentives for diasporas to advance, sustain and expand their business. Though it is argued diaspora owned businesses have proved profitable locally, many diasporas reported that there are mounting local challenges that tend to discourage them from either scaling up or sustaining their business. This is partly due to lack of local synergies and the absence of nurturing environment. Furthermore, it is also argued that in spite of the diaspora's eagerness to contribute to their home country, significant barriers exist that threaten the realization of these interests. If Somaliland overcome these hurdles and benefit from the large potential that their diaspora populations offer, there is need for a deliberate and coordinated diaspora engagement effort and knowledge sharing that will provide a solid and informed foundation for these efforts to occur.

On the other hand, local business is burgeoning and local opportunities are becoming numerous but the lack of institutions to nurture, incubate and advance business ideas are the main challenges to be overcome in the near future. Despite the encouraging existing political will, if these challenges are addressed, diasporas community potentials in the field of trade, business and investment will not be properly tapped and resources will be lost.
